Amie, What's up!
Hef!

The 1988 Artisan Yearbook is dedicated to Mrs. Gloria Stewart, in appreciation of her guidance and friendship to the staff. Over the last 19 years, Mrs. Stewart has motivated yearbook staffs to do their best. As she retires from yearbook supervision, our thanks and best wishes go with her.

Amie,
To a great and funny girl that I got in to know well this year in Art class, keep up the good work, you draw very well even if you don't think so. Have a wonderful summer and keep in touch!

Freshmen, sophomores, juniors, seniors—we all had one thing in common. We lived for the weekend. Pressures of homework and exams seemed to disappear as tenth period on Friday drew to a close. Yes sir, those rowdy parties with pizza, coke, and a rented movie kept us going all year!

Mondays were the worst, but they were closely followed by Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays. Getting up was a drag. Then we stumbled in off the bus, red-eyed and droopy-tailed, only to find loads of classwork and homework. But it was worth it, because we were Getting An Education!*

Would lunch never come? We got up at 7:00, too late to eat breakfast. We sat through classes while our stomachs growled. Finally, it was lunch time. But then we had to beat up our Chicken McSchool before we could spread the mayo on it! Seeing our friends and taking a break made it all worthwhile, though.*

Everyone had a favorite place to hang out at the school. For some, it was "the island." Others preferred to relax on the senior bench, sprawled across it or just seated. Underclassman females loved the restrooms. But wherever they were, our hangouts made school a little more bearable.

aimie,
So a real sweet person I met last year. Already wish so still went her class we had fun skipping school and going to the mall even to see where because we can leave again. But I hope you have luck in the future. I at this hell hole! Good luck with the gyps and with school for you guys! 3 yrs. of senior

*At 8:10 we wandered into a crowded locker room and undid the job of dressing we had just done the hour before. We had a common plight — surviving classes. We spent years perfecting our looks of total attention to our teachers, looks worn only when we were half asleep. Passing notes was another skill that took years to perfect, because having a note intercepted could prove fatal. If only our teachers realized . . . then again, maybe they did.

Being a senior wasn't always easy. We had to decide how to give meaning to our life after high school. Should we join the Navy, work at McDonald's, or go to HACC? Some of life's great choices were confronting us. But at the moment the most important decision was: should we stay in study hall, sign out for early dismissal, or go to outside campus?

From the six distant elementary schools, we came together for the first time. On that first day of seventh grade, we began a trek which would take us through 1,080 days together. Through those seven years, we grew closer, and as we came to the end of our journey, we were one group with one common goal-1988 graduation.

MILLIGANT'S

President Kris McIlwee

Vice President Desiree Ream

The most interesting junior class had to be health. Where else could we hear Mr. Zimmerman describing the reproductive system, or enjoy Mr. Sauve telling us about the harmful effects of chewing tobacco? What a great way to spend three periods a cycle.

Every member of the MASH faculty had his or her own idiosyncrasies. For instance, she may have loved to pace around the room in a certain way, or he may have broken ten sticks of chalk every period. These qualities added a touch of humor to an otherwise hum-drum school day. Whenever we got sick of the crazy language of Hamlet or the sine laws of trigonometry, we could always discuss our favorite teacher's funky-style.

Fewer things made students happier in class than television, a filmstrip, or a movie projector. Whenever one of these objects rolled into class, a single thought jumped into every student's mind — it's Nap Time! Students bedded down for the period left and right. And they snoozed contentedly all through the class, right until the teacher broke out the pop quizzes!

The Academic curriculum readied students to go on to college, and it concentrated on areas such as math and science. One of the other academic strong points was the foreign language program. Although the number of students at MASH is decreasing, French, German, and Spanish classes have kept their membership up, mainly because language instructors keep the classes interesting. For instance, Miss Margaret Malesic's German class makes a video tape each year. They then exchange it with one from an English class in West Germany. Miss Malesic says, "Taking a language aids your development in college, especially if you stick with it for all four years." It's true, too. After four years of a language, a student can parler/sprechen/hablar with just about anyone!

The Business Curriculum prepared students for a career in the business world. They took dictation for hours on end and made strange symbols in shorthand. Students in Retailing class also got a chance to work in the school store — "The Cat's Den." This funky little store, under the guidance of Mrs. Dean, pulled in nearly two hundred dollars a week — without selling candy at lunch! Junior Jeff Sanders thought that the work was "fun." Senior Linda Keck laughed, "Getting out of class is the best part!" And after a year of dealing with money, responsibility, and peeved customers who REALLY WANTED GUMMI BEARS!, Cat's Den workers were ready for the world of retailing.

One of the most popular aspects of the General curriculum at MASH was the Art major. Students took Art as a major class for all four years, often as preparation for art school or a career in art. Art IV was designed to prepare students for art school. All Art IV students had to assemble a portfolio of their work. They explored painting, sculpting, drawing, etching, and many other media. The art room was quite a busy place, with pupils under the guidance of Mrs. Joyce Shaw turning out masterpieces by the score. However, Lisa Runkle said, "Many think that art is all fun, but it is a lot of hard work, especially if you want to go on to art school." Leisl Baum claimed that in art school she would "have the upper hand because of Art IV." Just think — future Picassos and Manets, here in Art IV!

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council was the binding link between the administrators, the faculty, and the student body. By working with the administration, the Student Council strove to make the year as enjoyable as possible. This year's Council was headed by four officers- President Michelle Fastiggi, Vice- President Steve Signor, Secretary Kerry Vogelsong, and Treasurer Yong Lee. President Michelle Fastiggi stated, "I get a nice feeling seeing students working for other students." And they did work, giving us fascinating assemblies which got us out of class, the Homecoming ceremonies, a lollipop sale, spirit week, rockin' dances, and munchies during sporting events. The 1987-1988 Student Council never stopped trying to make this year as interesting as it could be.

ARTISAN/ TORCH

Layouts, deadlines and copy! Words which the 1988 Artisan staff had drummed into their skulls from the first day. Under the supervision of Gloria Stewart, the yearbook staff muddled through a hectic schedule to turn out this fine book. The students, led by editors Julie Jackson, Sara Fentress, Dan Morrison, Steve Signor, Mara Viti, and Dyon Stefanon, created a yearbook which truly captured the spirit of Mechanic-sburg High School in 1988.

Under the leadership of Doug DeStephano and Alan Bardell, the Torch staff published a series of successful newspapers describing the school activities. The Torch staff's objective reporting covered subjects from sports achievements to substance abuse. Students could also express their views of important school issues by writing letters to the editor. Certain issues such as the one that investigated drug abuse gave students further insight into current problems. As a major voice at MASH, the Torch was an enjoyable newspaper with many satisfied subscribers.

FORENSICS

Another year went by, and MASH's debate and speech teams again had successful seasons. Under the direction of Mr. William Murray, the debators spent hours of their free time preparing for their arguments concerning U.S. political involvement in Latin America. They again proved to be one of the top debating teams in the midstate. Murray said, "We're having another good year."

Speech team members, directed by Mrs. Linda Howard and Mrs. Mary Ellen Filkosky, worked hard to polish their individual speeches. Although the team attended only two tournaments, at Cumberland Valley and far-away Shikellamy, members met with success at both places. Senior Sara Fentress said, "Speech team is a lot of work, but it's well worth it."

The alarm clock went off at 5:45 A.M. for the loyal NHS member who wanted to get to the early 7:30 NHS meeting. With President Terry Chen, Vice-President Joshua Widoff, and Secretary/Treasurer Melissa Neely presiding over the meeting the NHS planned its upcoming activities. The most popular ones, the carnation sales, were before Christmas and Valentine's day. Groans drifted out of homeroom as students listened to the NHS singers and saw the bundles of red carnation being passed out. Other activities included a quarterly Honor Roll Breakfast, an induction ceremony complete with candles and choir robes and three Blood Bank drives.

Ever wonder who is crazy enough to sit out in the hall and paint on the wall? Well, it is one of the loyal NAHS members doing what they love to do the most-draw. This group did most of the artwork around the school. They designed the handbook cover, buttons, and even the report cards. They completed various other tasks for the community, including posters for clubs in Mechanicsburg. For their own enjoyment, they went to the National Gallery in Washington and entered a float in the Halloween Parade. This year the student body was also subjected to various NAHS members singing on the morning announcements about their annual calendar sale.

CLASS PLAYS

With casts of very talented members, the Senior Class of 1988 completed two successful plays during their high school career. In February of their junior year, the actors hit the stage to perform "Cheaper by the Dozen" under the direction of Mrs. Karen Bowser and student directors Terry Chen and Bobbi Jo Gump. In addition to their successful performances, the cast members would always recall the special moments, such as all of the "kids" trying to line up together, an APPLAUSE sign during a performance, and, of course, Chris Russo's Peewee Herman dance.

On this page- Tim Brennan cheers "Give me an M!" Lovestruck; Chris Russo and Bekki Welling; Chris Russo says "Get that spider off me."

To top off their senior year, cast members of the Senior Class Play went to work to put on their production of "Father Knows Best." The cast of sixteen members started work in October under the direction of Miss Holly Rider and student directors Bobbi Jo Gump and Julie Fenstermacher. After their final performance in November, cast member Dyon Stefanon recalled, "For only a short amount of time to practice, I feel we put on a good performance." This feeling was shared by the other cast members as they looked back on their senior year and their production of "Father Knows Best."

The 1987 Competition Play cast accomplished more than any in the past seven years. Under the guidance of Director Donald Books, Choreographer Doug Cornman, and Student Director Bobbi Jo Gump, the play won its district competition at Trinity High School and placed third at Regionals at Pennsbury High School in Philadelphia.

In addition to these competitions, the play, Asylum, by Jerome McDonough, was performed for students in assemblies and for parents in the evening. Audience members described the ensemble play as "bizarre" and "spaced out."

Despite the unusual nature of the script, however, most members of the cast and stage crew enjoyed working on the production. In the spring, Mechanicsburg attended the Bucks County competition.

CHOIR

Choir brings happiness to Becky Justice and Jennie Saphore.

Chrysoula Daskalakis getting ready for choir.

Mechanicsburg's choir and glee club hit a lot of high notes this year. The Glee Club kicked off the season of song with a performance in Governor Casey's annual tree-lighting ceremony at the State Capitol. Both choirs participated in our holiday concert, and the Glee Club also was honored by attending Hershey's Candylane to Carol. Show Choir has kept busy this year serenading the senior citizens and practicing to perfect their performance for the spring festival at Gettysburg. The District Choir Festival, another major event, saw 200 singers from 68 Central Pennsylvania schools gather at Mechanicsburg to do their thing. It was truly an exciting year.

Aside from first period practices days 2, 4, & 6, the first event of the year was the November theme concert. The mood of this concert was set by the formal black and white dress clothes and enhanced by the long-stemmed roses strewn across the cafeteria tables. As various ensembles played their pieces, members of the Orchestra served the audience punch and cheese. The full Orchestra then entered the cafeteria and performed for the attentive audience. But this wasn't the only special activity that the Orchestra took part in this year. For the first time, the Orchestra traveled to Connecticut to give a performance, which the members of the MASH Orchestra would never forget.

MARCHING BAND

As the summer drew to a close, the majority of the band tried to ignore the upcoming experience of the two-week Band Camp. Some of the members took off for a one-week preview featuring Dr. Tim, a speaker on positive attitude. The message somehow filtered out through the band and camp ended on a very positive note. The band "Put it Together" and let the competition circuit know that they meant business. Unofficial band mascot Steve Herrold let people know when "Cherokee" was coming up as his indian costume drew attention to the stands. The band endured practice in downpours and thunderstorms, and confetti battles in the stands. When the cold chill entered the air, the band broke out the beach ball and thought ahead to the spring band trip.

BANDS

"Despite individual setbacks, this year's group performed well because they were willing to work harder," commented band director Mr. Dave Stewart, who admired the band members for their perseverance. The band members themselves enjoyed playing and learning new pieces of music even though the rehearsals were sometimes demanding and rigorous. Some of our best band members were a part of the Jazz Ensemble. This tight-knit group was a gathering of talented individuals who were inspired to do their best by director Dale Hoke. The Jazz Ensemble performed musical pieces by jazz greats such as Count Basie and Doc Severinson. Hours of practice after school made them one of the finest jazz ensembles in the area.

CHEERLEADERS

The cheerleaders were an integral part of what MASH is. They are the ones who help our athletes pick themselves up after a bad play or get "psyched" up for a game to come. Shown here are Lianne Burkholder and Dee Duffalo bubbling with the energy of MASH.

The cheerleaders were an important part of school spirit at MASH. Their presence at sports events gave a boost to our athletes and contributed to the excellence of our teams in interscholastic competition. "I like being involved in the events that go on in school and seeing many people," stated Theresa Albright, one of our Varsity Cheerleaders.

The highlight of the season came at the I.C.F. cheerleading camp which took place this year at Bloomsburg. While there, they won the overall championship, walking away with an array of ribbons and trophies. Lianne Burkholder was named the "most spirited cheerleader," and walked away with the "koog." Their favorite cheer of the year? "Jam, Jam, Jam, that's the way we move."

It seemed that their practice under the leadership of their new advisor, Pam Getz, paid off. Many times the cheerleaders had to be present for various athletic events every day of the week. Weighing the advantages and disadvantages, the girls wouldn't have changed anything because they truly enjoyed what they did.

One thing's for sure when it comes to cheerleaders — boy, can they yell! But sometimes, after a long game, even the cheerleaders need a little help in being heard. Pictured here are Lauren Herrold, Ariana Russo, and Gina Heckard, putting their megaphones to good use.

S.L.A.M., SADD, Prom Committee, and Key Club—the organizations which serve the student body. S.L.A.M., the student listening program, helped students become more aware of themselves by working to help others. S.L.A.M. was responsible for the up-to-date birthday lists that reminded the student body of everyone's special day. SADD had the difficult task of igniting an all-out campaign against drunk driving. At Christmas, the red promise-not-to-drink-and-drive ribbons were a reminder to our students of the threat of drinking on the road. Key Club, our community service organization, volunteered its time to support the elderly and handicapped, as well as raising money for the Special Olympics. The time and energy spent by this international organization was appreciated... especially during its bake sales! The Prom Committee, a group of hard working juniors, tackled the monumental job of organizing the traditional formal dance in 1988. As always, the dedication of a few gave students a night to remember.

INTEREST GROUPS

"Interest groups give our school more spirit and unity," said John Humphries. Jill Brenneman felt that they provided variety in an "otherwise boring" week. While the faculty and staff may have felt that interest groups were unproductive and a waste of valuable class time, many students disagreed. Without them we wouldn't have had Pep club posters or paintings in the halls. Also, organizations such as S.L.A.M., SADD, and Key Club needed this time to provide services to our school and community, and to give students a chance to practice organizational and leadership skills.

1987 Division I Champions

Base running is a very important part of baseball. It seems here that it's just another walk in the park for Troy Reed.

Keeping your eye on the ball while at the plate is of the utmost importance. "Axe" watches the ball and the right field fence.

Here Scott Howard is holding a man on first base, while the first base coach is yelling: "Get BACK!"

In 1987, the Wildcats were again eyeing the Division I title. By season's end they had that title, but they fell short of a playoff championship.

Pitching power came from senior Chris Hakel and juniors Jason Albert and Scott Burns. Some of the big bats were those of Ammon Peffley, Dan Law, Jerry McKeon, and Troy Reed. However, the rest of the lineup got their share of hits. Coach Don Shirley commented, "Every player helped . . . We had no stars, we were a team."

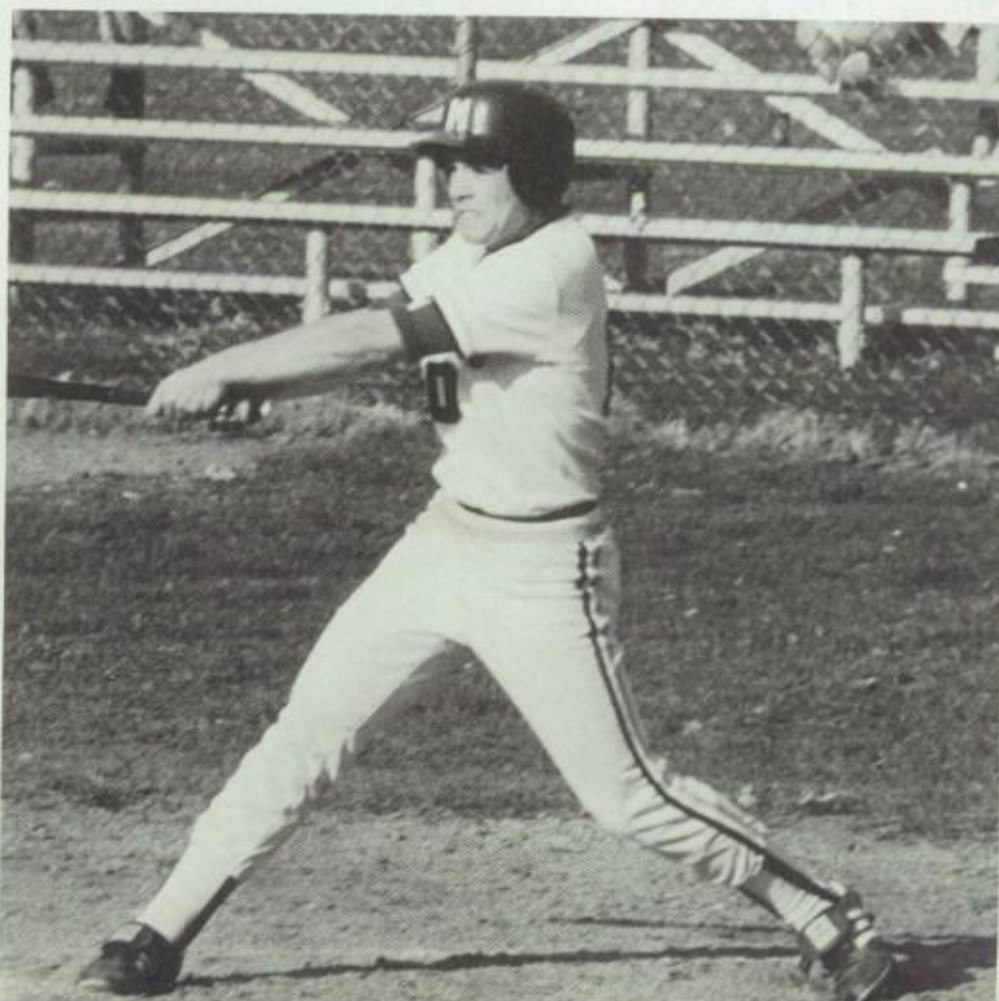

The JV also had a great season, finishing with a stunning 16-0 record. The team was led by hitters Keith Humes, Scott Lutz, and "Snoot" Bolash.

Players and coaches looked forward to another fine season in 1988. Good luck to the Cats of the diamond.

The grimace on "Jr." McKeon's face shows us the POWER of his swing.

Varsity Softball 1987

The 1987 softball team was led by the outstanding senior duo of Michele Fogle and Lori Mekulski. Third baseman Michele Fogle had both the highest batting average and the most RBI's on the team. Lori Mekulski dominated at the plate and at first base. Junior Lisa Libby also had a big bat for the Wildcats.

The success of this year's squad was largely due to the superior teamwork of the infield, but the 'Cats were strengthened by talented individuals from shortstop Stacy Hall to designated hitter Amy Albert.

Often softball is reduced to a basic concept — catch the ball! Here, Stacy Hall scrambles past both the catcher and the elusive ball, en route to homeplate and a Wildcat run.

Pitching is the key to success in softball, and a good pitcher can often make a good team. Laurie McFadden, a Wildcat starter, displays her pitching form.

You've got to score to win, and you've got to hit to score. Lisa Libby concentrates on an incoming pitch, intent on pounding a crucial hit.

Track Team 1987

"We were competitive," said coach Bill Leonard. "We had a lot of close matches, but we lacked that extra push for a win."

Leading the team was the strong junior tandem of Mike Swank and Chris Grove. Other standouts on the varsity squad were seniors Drew Koser, a distance specialist; John Ross, king of the hurdles; and Karen Reighter, a high-jumper.

The freshmen team also had a good season. Strengthening the ninth grade squad were Andy Cronin and Steve Bootay.

Tim Sollenberger hustles down the track against a picturesque backdrop of hurdles. A strong sprinter, Tim's aggressive style won him many points.

Soaring like a bird, Rachelle Yanuck racks up the long-jump points. Rachelle's jumping form contributed a lot to the girls' track team.

Reaching new heights, Karen Reighter dominates the high-jump competition. Karen, a four year member of the track team, exhibits great form.

Dave Stevick's picture-perfect pole vaulting technique earns him a win. Joost Verploeg and Dave Wert are quite impressed.

Desiree Ream comfortably ahead of the competition.

1987 Wildcat Football Team Goes 6-5

This year's football team was one of much talent, despite what their record showed. The Wildcats finished with an overall record of 6 and 5, while they were 6 and 2 in their own division. The Wildcat offense was led by quarterback Doug Erney, tailback Jerry McKeon and the receiving tandem of Jeff Henry and Todd Duffie. The Wildcats' front line opened some pretty impressive holes as well. The defense was led by tacklers Darryl Uhler and Brett "Bulldog" Lechthaler. Jeff Costello and the Wildcat secondary also had some big games, and at one time the secondary was ranked first in the midstate area for the least yards yielded. And despite the team's losses, they never gave up. They battled to a 17 to 14 loss against the Quad A champions, the Cedar Cliff Colts.

The boys cross country team, under the direction of Coach Barb Spurtzel, had some very tough meets and ended their season with a 3 and 10 record. However, their record did not show the talent that this team had. The 1987 squad was full of talented upperclassmen such as Junior Mike Swank and Seniors Alan Bardell, Roger Kitchen, and team captain Sean Adams. A plethora of promising underclassmen should make the Wildcats of cross country the team to beat in the future.

The toughest hurdle of the year for the girls cross country team was finding enough girls to fill out the team. Once they did though, this team of quality and not quantity was off to a running start. After losing a tough meet to Palmyra, which cost the team a three place tie for first place in their division, the performances of the team captains Chris Grove, Amy Shore, and Tracie Welker helped to keep the girls in stride. The team, led by Coach Barb Spurtzel, completed a winning season by earning a second place finish in their division.

Mechanicsburg Field Hockey 1987

"The best way to describe our season is to say that it was like a roller coaster ride. We had our up days and our down days," stated Coach Joann Schell, when referring to the Varsity Field Hockey Team. It seemed that for every loss, the team came back with ties against strong competitors such as Lower Dauphin (Division I Champions) and Carlisle. Faced with a grueling schedule — 3 games a week and practice every day — the team was led by 7 returning seniors and the likes of All Star goalie, Athlete-of-the-Week, Lisa Libby. Her talents showed through in the game against Central Dauphin East when she was given the opportunity to score by way of a penalty shot. Her goal, the first ever scored by a goalie on a goalie, was the crucial tying point and Mechanicsburg stole a victory from C.D. East. Next year's season has potential to be a winning one with returning Juniors Desiree Ream and Brita Erickson and Sophomores Cheri Teeter and Ariana Russo. The Junior Varsity, led by Julie Wildman, Richelle McClintock and Becky Burwell, finished their season with a winning record.

Districts, Again!

They said it couldn't be done. After losing nine of last year's eleven starters, the Mechanicsburg soccer team battled all odds to reach district play for the second straight year. The Cats were led by Seniors Yong Lee and Scott Adams, while numerous underclassmen showed promise for the years to come. In midseason the keeper position changed hands, with Senior Rob Brown taking over. Josh Widoff promptly became a scoring machine as a Wildcat forward. The season's highlight was a shoot-out defeat of Carlisle, which marked the first time in Mid-Penn soccer history that Mechanicsburg had defeated Carlisle. Said first-year coach Chris Brockman, "Just reaching .500 was an accomplishment; all the rest is just icing on the cake."

Free kicks within the penalty area are frequent occurrences in soccer. To properly defend such a kick, a human "wall" must be constructed. Shown here are Jim Baker, Yong Lee, Dave Gaffney, and Scott Adams, demonstrating the "essentials" of a perfect wall.

The midfield is the most critical aspect of the game of soccer; to control the midfield is to control the game. Shown here is Yong Lee, who was the key to the Cats' midfield success.

Although soccer is usually associated with the feet, the head is just as much a part of the game. Here Tony Lougee "uses his head" in winning the ball from a pesky defender.

Ball control is the name of the game in soccer; to control the ball is to control the game. An important part of ball control is effective dribbling, as Dave Gaffney so skillfully shows.

The J.V. team, under first-year coach Shalish Mehta, had a fine year as MASH's future stars had time to develop their skills. The team began the season with an impressive winning streak and then hit a rough spot in mid-season. They eventually snapped out of it to finish the season on a high-note. The team's key players were Steve Harris, John McGinley and Chris Lougee. Perhaps the most disappointing losses of the year came to archenemy Cumberland Valley but as one student noted with enthusiasm "We'll get 'um next year!"

Left: Once a soccer player has mastered basic ball skills, he may work on finesse. Here Charley Miller demonstrates the "Croif" maneuver on an opposing player, as Danny Wagner looks on.

Right: The game of soccer is a rigorous one, that can last as long as 100 minutes per game. These 100 minutes are broken up by precious few and all-too-short breaks. Shown here are a handful of Cats enjoying a well-deserved rest.

*Women

Lady Cats!

Led by coach William Klaiber, the girls' tennis team had another successful season behind the leadership of Mollie Fisher and Jill Gregor. Jenny Coffman and Ingrid Eberly showed promise for next year. In divisional play Mollie Fisher made it to the finish, while she and Jill Gregor finished second in doubles play. In the district tournament Mollie again represented MASH, while Jill Gregor was forced to sit out with a cast on her foot. Asked what their toughest match of the year was, Mollie Fisher replied: "C.V., definitely, C.V."

The most important aspect of a tennis player's game is the serve. The serve, however, is not easily mastered. Shown here is Mollie Fisher exhibiting good form, extension, and power, while perfecting that all-important serve.

The key to a strong tennis shot is a smooth stroke followed by a good follow-through. This follow-through adds power and accuracy to the ball. Jill Gregor, is shown here demonstrating a fine follow-through and no doubt a powerful shot.

Tennis has been called a game of inches, having one's racket in the right spot at the right time is essential. Here Jenny Coffman gives it that little extra in order to cover those important inches.

While the seniors had hoped for a more successful season, the volleyball team had a good time in their matches this year. Said one senior, "We really had a chance to have fun with it." Good luck to the teams of the future, as the underclassmen return loaded with talent and ready to play.

One of the most powerful weapons in the game of volleyball is the spike. For the spike to be effective, it must be propelled at a high velocity in a downward direction. Show here is Chrissy Sanderson ironing out the finer points of hers as Nettie Parsons looks on.

GOLF TEAM

The 1987 Wildcat Golf Team was the major force on area courses, dominating the competition. Long hours of practice at nearby Range End paid off in a stellar 14-4 record. Veteran coach Howard Bly said, "The team competed well and we had a very successful season. Chip Richter especially helped the team with his fine play throughout the season." Chip Richter and Jim Berkoben, juniors, and seniors Tom Sullivan, Dave Hall, and Todd O'Donnell led the golf team to victory on the links. Coach Bly also anticipates an exciting season in 1988, with many keen players like sophomore Joe Costa and freshman Doug Klenoshek returning. Congratulations on a fine season and good luck on the fairways!

SWISH

Often, a basketball game can be won or lost at the foul line. Free-throw accuracy takes hours of practice, shooting foul shot after foul shot. Here, Doug Erney gets set to deliver a free-throw with the hope that all of that practice will pay off.

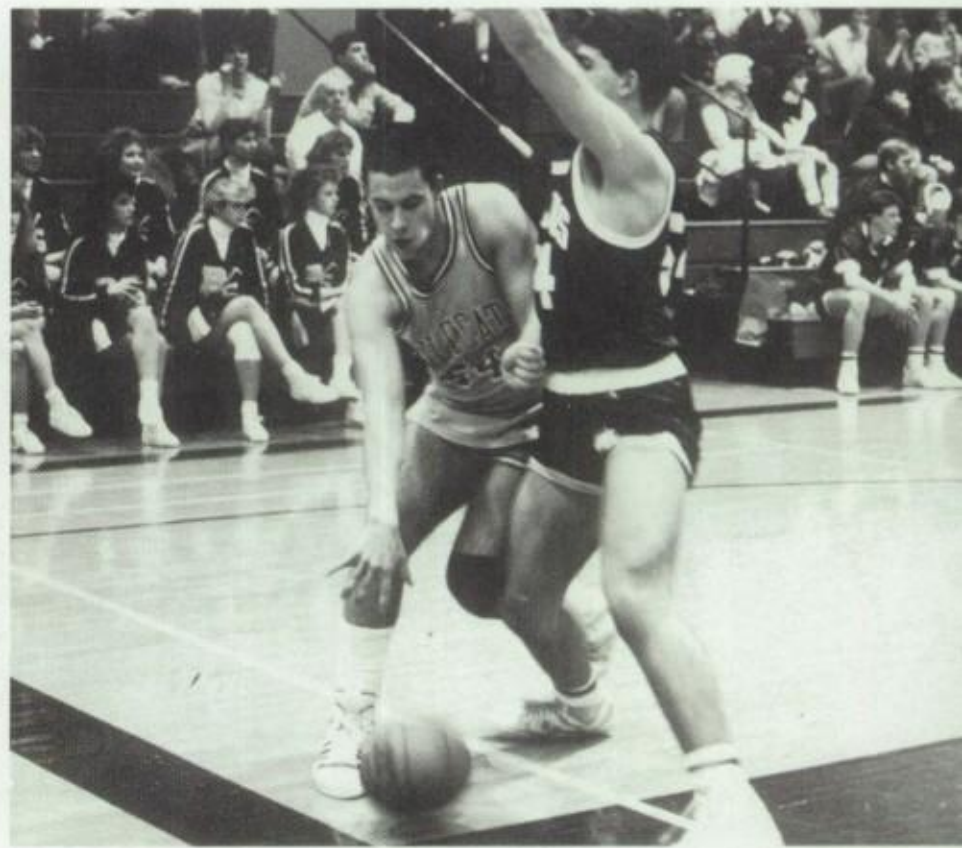

A basketball team cannot win on offense alone. A good offense must be backed by an even better defense. One of the Cats' strong points this season was an aggressive defense. Shown here is Jeff Henry playing tough defense as he sticks to his man like glue.

One of the most important shots in basketball is the short jumper from just outside the point. To "hit" the jumper takes a special touch. Here Mark Fry gives his shot that special touch with the hope that 2 points will soon follow.

One of the keys to win in basketball is the rebounding "edge". In order to gain this edge one must "bang the boards," out-reaching, out-jumping and out-hustling the opponent. Here Doug Schaeffer does just that as he brings down a big rebound.

The Wildcats enjoyed another fine season with a balanced attack on offense. The team was led by Seniors Jeff Henry and Doug Erney, who both made good use of the newly installed three-point shot. The Cats also received help inside from "big men" Doug Schaeffer, Marc Fry, Paul Smilnak, and Frank Melvin. The Wildcats' defense was sparked by Senior Jeff Costello. Although the team's seniors played a big role in their success, talent abounds in the underclassmen of the squad, promising a bright future for the Cats.

Sometimes the game of basketball requires a little more than just a pretty shot. Often, all it takes is a good push and shove here and there. Here, Paul Smilnak drives to the hoop while carving out a little room for himself.

Often times the key to getting off a good shot is just a matter of outjumping the opponent. To outjump the opponent is to outplay the opponent. Todd Madden is pictured here out-leaping his defender in pursuit of the perfect shot.

One of the most important aspects of rebounding is good position. A player must gain inside position in order to gain a rebounding edge. Here Jose Ramirez rips down a rebound thanks to his excellent positioning.

Often it is very difficult to play good defense without committing a foul. The usual advice is: "Just get a hand in his face." Jeff Costello takes this advice to heart as shown here.

At certain points in a basketball game, the ball can become rather slippery. Often for spectators it becomes a matter of following the bouncing ball. Here Jeff Henry, and Jeff Costello scramble for the "slippery ball".

"Getting along really helped the team effort. The coaching was really good this year and was a major reason for our success," commented senior Lisa Libby. And a great success they were, beating opponents as formidable as Camp Hill and Shippensburg.

The Lady Wildcats were elated with their success this season, but ready for next year's court battles were hopeful hoopsters Jenny Coffman, Maureen Peffley, and Casey Melvin.

Wrestling

Perhaps the most gripping characteristic of the 1988 Wrestling Team was the "youthful disposition" of the participants. Underclassmen comprised most of the team, and even head Coach Bill Jones was new to his position. The leaders of the team, Seniors Charley Miller, George Cornell, Tony Lougee, and Jim Tannous, provided most of the experience for the team. But despite the overall inexperience, MASH's 1988 wrestlers were talented and provided challenging competition.

Splash

The key to this year's swim team was self-motivation. The girls swam meets such as Chambersburg and Cedar Cliff that were so close that the 4x100 freestyle relay, the last race, determined the outcomes of the meet. Despite the frustration that the boys faced at every meet, they set and achieved personal goals which kept their scores close. The entire team put forth their best effort at every meet. Coach Ann Leonard said, "I will carry this year and this group of kids with me a long, long time!"

Summer was almost here, and finals loomed on the horizon like a hurricane. Beyond the storm lay the peace of summer. We'd all kick back with a long-neck root beer in our paws and dream about the things we'd like to do. We'd go tubing! We'd go to the beach! Then again, maybe we'd just close our eyes and have another root beer. And we'd have fun!

As the year ended, there were quite a few things we were glad to forget, such as getting up at 6:00 a.m., worrying about finals, and eating school food. Everyone was glad to see the end of these terrible, terrible events. But there was also one thing to remember — we had three months of freedom coming up!

Most of the seniors wondered about certain things as the school year ended and summer drew near. Where will I be next fall? Will I be at JMU? Will I be at Penn State main campus? Or perhaps . . . Will I be at HACC or WACC? Might I be at Gordon Phillips Beauty School, or learning a helpful skill at MTA? Will I be living at home, in a dorm somewhere, or in a cardboard box behind the mall? But the most important question of all was . . . How much fun can I have this summer??

Everyone needs some advice now and then, and the Artisan is as good a place to give it as any! For the freshmen . . . Live it up and party. You're not the scum of the school any more (just kidding) — you are now sophomores. For the sophomores . . . Party and live it up. You are now privileged upperclassmen. For the juniors . . . Live it up and party — a lot. It took a while, but you are now the kings of the entire school. And for the departing seniors . . . LIVE IT UP AND PARTY! Because in a few months . . . you'll be back on the bottom again!

The end of the school year brought several changes. Freshmen would no longer be at the bottom of the heap — they would be SOPHOMORES! Sophomores would now be privileged upperclassmen — JUNIORS! Juniors would be kings of the mountain, lords of all they surveyed, party animals — SENIORS! And we seniors going on to college would once again be lowly freshmen.

I ♥ Scott
Amice- FOSTER !

to some wacky & crazy girl
I met some how & some time ago. Remember all the fun times we had at the pool and every place else that we went. We've had our ups &
downs but mostly our ups.
Just think you have 3 more years of this school & I only have next year. That's great. Remember all the times you came up to my house & talked about all your dreams. It was a great time that we had. Remember all the times that we

Aimee, I know they! I know ya like Randy, but, take my advice, AND stay away from him.
Ok? Love Ya,

would be really gooby.
they were some good times
But the Bad times is All the times that we got into fights that we had which really made me mad. You were always consider my friend until you made me. I know that you're a mixed up person but I know what you're doing thru.
I went through alot →

obstacul like you!
well any way Good luck w/ that special some one. & maybe one 2b these day your dreams will go - bar. You a very Bright person.
Have a nice summer!

Kite (697-2499) over the summer & maybe we can get to gether & do something! Lots of luck!

Aimee,
Hey wench! Sike.
You're one of my best friends and someday
you and Randy will go out. And me and Chad will be your next door neighbors when you & Randy and me and Chad get married! Remember when we were talking about that but actually it was supposed to be me and Blacher! Ya right! Well all I have to say is stay cool and party
sorry for writing over Randy!
